4th Global Ayurveda Festival KERALA VIRTUAL CONFERENCE & EXPO

Organised by

Dear Friends,

Greetings from Global Ayurveda Festival!

Civilizations have endorsed intellectual conclaves as their existential necessity. When great minds met history was made...Powerful thoughts have changed the course of politics, countries and mankind. Whenever human being felt it difficult to "be", guiding thoughts have come as saviours. It was this profundity in a blessed few that helped the advent of Ayurveda from its celestial abodes, as the myth exalts. An impeccable system of thinking and communicating kept this sastra alive, helping it keep an unbroken continuity, helping it trounce intimidating invasions and innumerable adversities.

The sparks of the quest for knowledge and experience have expunged all boundaries and we stand with our traditional wisdom facing a global community represented by simple clientele to serious scientists.

Fourth GAF originally planned for 16th to 20th May 2020 that picked up an unprecedented global momentum, with the participation and pledge of support from the official representatives of 60+ countries in a meeting organized by the Ministry of External Affairs in Delhi in early February, had to be postponed due to the impact of the pandemic. The event by then, had also created an encouraging national interest, among the stakeholders of Ayurveda and the larger public.

As the pandemic period is getting extended and as there are no clear signs of an optimal time to conduct GAF as a physical event, we have made plans to host it on a virtual platform without diluting the intended intensity, size, impact and participation. We are happy to announce that the Fourth Edition of GAF will be organized in a high end virtual space from 12th to 19th March 2021, carrying all the components we originally planned – International Seminar, Exhibition and Business Meet and all other regular integral events.

We will have live sessions including plenaries, symposiums, parallel sessions, paper presentations, virtual exhibition and virtual networking. We expect the world to assemble in our private screens, live and for Ayurveda, for 8 days from 12th to 19th March 2021.

As in the previous Festivals, we are bringing together the best for the Ayurveda fraternity – to learn, to experience, to collaborate, to progress and to expand. It will be an event that meets the needs of all - from students to scientists, from practitioners to policy makers and from educationalists to entrepreneurs.

Welcome – the world is waiting!

Global Ayurveda Festival

It's Global

For individuals and institutions cherishing a dream to go global – fourth GAF is the beginning. It is a platform to coordinate the efforts of all committed members from participating countries to place Ayurveda as a global system of medicine. The stakeholders from many countries will be sharing their experiences, needs and will be seeking collaborations as they look at Ayurveda as a science that assures solace. GAF – the vision and the opportunity are truly, purely global.

The previous editions of GAF had encouraging participation of stakeholders from world over, precisely from 42 countries in the last GAF. We expect more participation this time taking advantages of the virtual nature of the event and foresee contacts, business, services and expertise transcending boundaries with ease.

It is a Festival

GAF is conceived not as an exclusive serious academic program or just as a fun filled celebration. It is indeed a 'festival' in its true sense. "Utsava", the festival in Sanskrit, means 'upwardly mobile/flowing'. It is also a significant ritual traditionally initiated to rectify the negativities that lessen the presence of divinity in a place of worship.

The intention behind GAF is similar – the authenticity and purity of Ayurveda are to be upheld and the upward progression of this science needs to be facilitated. It has a combination of everything essential for this to happen – intense academic sessions, exhibition, panel discussions, debates, public awareness programs, social participations, incorporation of art and culture, etc.

It is Virtual

The pandemic impact has led us to explore innovative digital models to arrange this Festival and have ended our journey with the best in this category. It is not just the convenience and logistics in this new world, but also the safety of all of you that motivated us to search for an alternative to physical meeting and arrive on a well developed and Time tested virtual platform to organize GAF.

It is capable to offer a comprehensive experience of attending GAF, as in a real setting, by sitting at home. For 8 days the world of Ayurveda will appear on your private screen – to take Ayurveda to the next level globally, with you.

It represents the glorious traditions of Kerala Ayurveda

Kerala had remained the cradle of pristine knowledge, culture, and heritage, including that of Ayurveda. As practiced in Kerala, Ayurveda has come to represent an untainted form of traditional Indian wisdom on health and medicine. Here, Ayurveda has been enriched with immense regional innovations and improvements to take the shape and form we have today.

The contributions of Ayurveda traditions of Kerala, in the form of commentaries to classical treatises and as texts on applied Ayurveda and as formulations and treatment modalities, have made this state emerge as "Ayurveda's own country" for seekers across the globe. The status of Ayurveda in Kerala is thus unique, with many living traditions unknown to other parts of the country and with the highest practitioners to population ratio in comparison to any other place in the world.

*GAF goes Virtual! Sastra goes seamless!
12th to 19th March 2021 – World will appear on screens, for Ayurveda!
Largest event. Widest Reach. Highest Impact – All in a virtual way!
The New Normal is getting redefined as a New Model!
GAF setting the trend – once again.*

Actualising Ayurveda's Healing Potential

FOCAL THEME: STRENGTHENING HOST DEFENCE SYSTEM –AYURVEDA A POTENTIAL PROMISE

Immunology is a rapidly evolving area of medical science and our understanding of immune system is changing each day. Impairment of immune system is implicated in a host of conditions including but not limited to those caused by microbes but also non-microbial diseases such as cancer, allergies and autoimmune disorders.

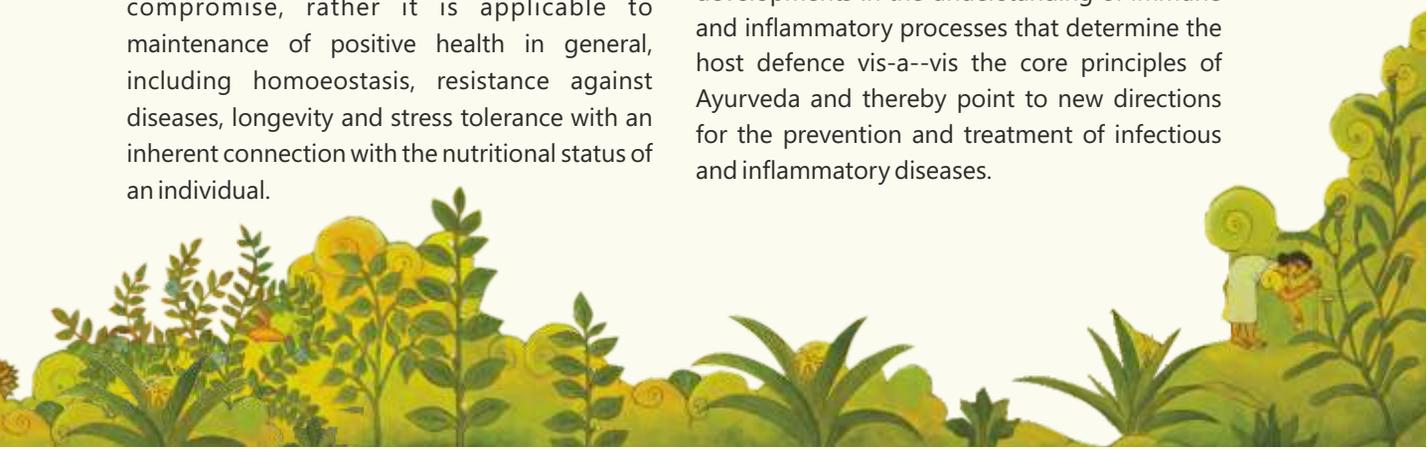

Management of immunity related disorders has posed as an immense challenge to the medical fraternity because not only does the immune system play an important role in establishing an infection-free state, it also can be stimulated and suppressed by various physical, chemical, and biological agents as already proven by advanced researches.

Recent advances in the field of neuro – endocrine – immune axis or the effect of circadian rhythms, seasonal variations, and different psychological states on immune system are uncovering novel concepts that are bringing the modern biomedical concepts closer to Ayurvedic principles of Vyadhi-ksamatva, Ojas and Bala. The utility of Ayurvedic concepts of immunology are not merely limited to antigen antibody phenomenon in infective diseases or immune-compromise, rather it is applicable to maintenance of positive health in general, including homeostasis, resistance against diseases, longevity and stress tolerance with an inherent connection with the nutritional status of an individual.

Ayurvedic immunology is not merely limited to antigen antibody phenomenon in infective diseases or immune-degeneration, rather it is applicable to maintenance of positive health in general including homeostasis, resistance against diseases, longevity and stress tolerance with an inherent bond with the nutritional status of an individual.

In the last two decades, devastating new infections have spread and past-dreaded diseases have re-emerged. Clearly, new fundamental insights into the interactions between microbial pathogens and the host organism are needed in order to develop novel strategies for the prevention and treatment of infectious diseases. A central development in this direction is the realization that both the pathogen and the host have significant effects on each other and so both must be studied together, as an interactive unit. These concepts are in complete harmony with the Ayurvedic approach to disease management, which includes examining the disease as well as the body before formulating a counter strategy.

The conference will attempt to elucidate recent developments in the understanding of immune and inflammatory processes that determine the host defence vis-a-vis the core principles of Ayurveda and thereby point to new directions for the prevention and treatment of infectious and inflammatory diseases.

Ayurveda Biology, the pioneer initiative for the above objectives, is the most inspiring among the many for its outcome, impact and reach.

Panel Discussion - Ayurveda in Africa: Assessing India's Preparedness

India and Africa share a rich history of use of traditional medicines in healthcare delivery. Of late there is also a growing global recognition of efficacy of traditional health practices in meeting local healthcare needs. In light of the recent policy push towards greater engagement with Africa through the '10 Guiding Principles for India

Africa Engagement', Ayurveda can serve as an important vehicle to meet the objective of one of the Principles, i.e., healthcare support. The rise of non-communicable diseases such as hypertension, heart diseases, and diabetes, and high costs associated with modern health care systems give Ayurveda an opportunity to showcase its relative strength in the area. Offering such services and using its own experience to facilitate integration of African medicine into the continent's national health care systems open up new possibilities towards deepening India's engagement with Africa.

India's own domestic preparedness for this global promotion becomes crucial in this regard. Ensuring product safety and quality assurance through stringent standards subscriptions is imperative. Besides domestic standards, it is global standards development that will give Ayurveda the acceptance in international destinations like Africa. Given the extensive use of medicinal plants as a fundamental component in traditional healthcare system, sustainability, and traceability in supply of raw materials is also important. Cooperation and mutual support at international flora relevant for traditional medicine is key to growth of traditional medicine systems of India and Africa. Towards this end, evolving joint strategies for expansion of trade classification through Harmonised System (HS) of Codes is important. India- Africa partnership at the World Customs Organisation (WCO) for expansion of HS codes to accommodate herbal sector could prove a mutually beneficial proposition.

The Panel will explore prospects and challenges of trade in Ayurvedic and herbal products and services. It will also discuss promotion of Ayurveda in Africa including possible areas of collaboration and suggest strategies towards this end.

Special Session on Ayurveda Medical Tourism

This will be a high-level event aimed at stakeholders from global medical tourism and international patient market and service providers from medical, wellness and hospitality industry in India. The purpose is to highlight the medical might of Ayurveda, to iron out policies and plans for adaptation to newer global medical requirements and to facilitate meeting and formalizing collaborations with global partners.

This session will be attended by Governmental representatives too, who have admirable initiatives to promote Medical and Health Tourism in target markets and at various international platforms by making use of the potential and advantages that are available in India – like Ayurveda.
