

The 36th Joint Conference of The ROC-Australia & Australia-Taiwan Business Councils

THE DOG THAT DID NOT BARK: MISSING INFORMATION AS DISINFORMATION IN ASYMMETRICAL INFORMATION WARFARE

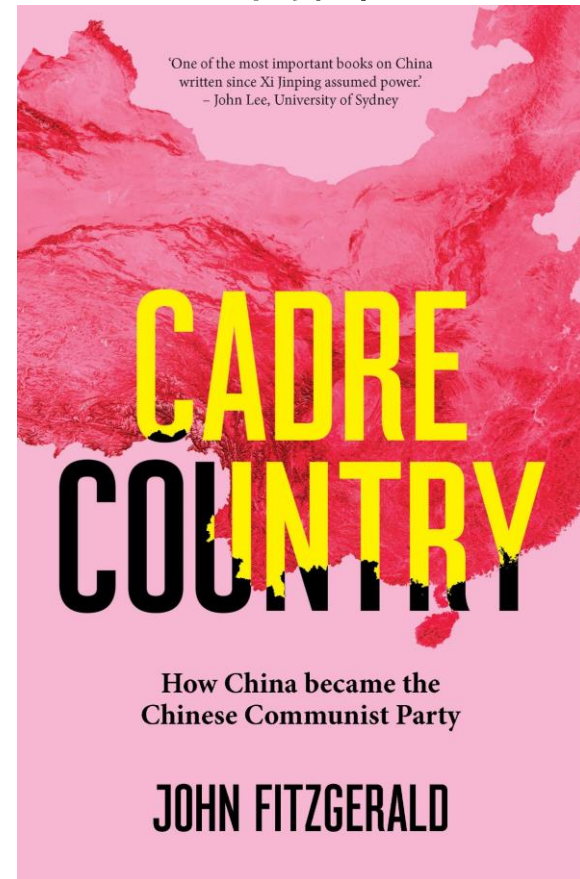

Panel Discussion on Cyber Security 資安座談暨討論
John Fitzgerald

Emeritus Prof Australian Strategic Policy Institute
& Swinburne University

PROFESSOR JOHN FITZGERALD 是澳洲戰略政策研究所（ASPI）的名譽教授，也是墨爾本斯威本科技大學社的名譽教授。2008-2013年，他曾擔任福特基金會駐北京的首席代表五年，在此之前，他曾擔任澳洲國立大學（ANU）亞太研究國際卓越中心主任和拉籌伯大學社會科學學院院長。在專業服務方面，他在2015-2017年當選為澳洲人文科學院院長，並在2005-2007年擔任澳大利亞中國研究協會主席。

Professor John Fitzgerald
Johnfitzgerald@swin.edu.au

THE DOG THAT DID NOT BARK: MISSING INFORMATION AS DISINFORMATION IN ASYMMETRICAL INFORMATION WARFARE

DEFINITIONS

Cyber security

Information warfare

Asymmetric information warfare

'Dog that didn't bark' – data missing from the record

SECRECY: CHINA'S COMPETITIVE EDGE IN INFORMATION WARFARE

Liberal democracy approach: openness and contestation

Leninist approach: secrecy and surveillance

Information as strategic tool to be wielded or withheld

THE DOG THAT DID NOT BARK: MISSING INFORMATION AS DISINFORMATION IN ASYMMETRICAL INFORMATION WARFARE

CHINA'S CULTURE OF SECRECY

Missing unreported information (Jin Chongji)

Missing reported information (Academic journals, Kyle Bass)

Suppressing Covid data (Australia, WHO)

Suppressing information on deaths by violence (Borge Bakken)

Exporting secrecy to Australia – university contracts, government tours, hush money.

RESPONDING TO CHINA AS SYSTEMIC DISINFORMATION STATE

